XPRESSTRADE OFFERS X-MINUTE ORDERS

XpressTrade has introduced X-Minute Orders, the latest in a series of advanced order types for futures traders. This order type gives the trader more control over when an order is transmitted, and how long the order will remain active. X-Minute Orders make it possible to place the order, but queue it internally until later. If the order isn't filled or canceled within the specified time, the system will automatically attempt to cancel it.

NEUROSHELL USER MAKES ECONOMIC PREDICTIONS

A longtime NeuroShell user took the trading software from the usual market predictions to make accurate economic forecasts, Ward Systems Group said. In 2004, Legend Advisory's Shashi Mehrotra created a synthetic index drawn from different sectors, hitting correct predictions 11 out of 12 times with economic, market, and sector forecasts. The results were presented at the National Advisors' Conference in October 2004.
